

MARC D. HIRSCH, M.D.

Marc D. Hirsch, MD received his Doctor of Medicine from Chicago Medical School. He served an internship at the University of California in Los Angeles and completed his ophthalmology residency at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center in New York. He then earned a fellowship in corneal diseases and refractive surgery at Tuft's University/Ophthalmic Consultants of Boston. Dr. Hirsch specializes in corneal transplantation, cataract surgery and laser vision correction. He has been involved in several clinical research studies and has been an invited lecturer on topics of corneal disease. Dr. Hirsch resides in Mequon with his wife and two children.

MARC D. HIRSCH, M.D.

MEDICAL EDUCATION:

Chicago Medical School
Chicago, IL

RESIDENCY:

Ophthalmology
Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center
New York, NY